DETAILED ACTION

Information Disclosure Statement

1. The information disclosure statements filed 23 Oct. 2001 and 10 April 2002 have been considered and made of record.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 6 and 7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Bloom (US 3,139,224).

The reference of Bloom discloses a cap (20) that can be used with a roller bottle. The cap (20) includes a supply/drain connection (46) arranged at the lowest point of the cap when the bottle is vertically inverted. The cap also includes a snorkel tube (86) extending upward through the fluid substantially along the central longitudinal axis of bottle (10).

4. Claims 6 and 7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Nasset (US 2,500,199).

The reference of Nasset discloses a cap (12) that can be used with a roller bottle. The cap (12) includes a supply/drain connection (14) arranged at the lowest point of the cap when the bottle is vertically inverted. The cap also includes a snorkel tube (20) extending upward through the fluid substantially along the central longitudinal axis of bottle (10).

5. Claims 6 and 7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Paisley et al.(US 2,100,610).

The reference of Paisley et al. discloses a cap (2) that can be used with a roller bottle. The cap (2) includes a supply/drain connection (17) arranged at the lowest point of the cap when the bottle is vertically inverted. The cap also includes a filtered (1) snorkel tube (6) extending upward through the fluid substantially along the central longitudinal axis of bottle (4).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Art Unit: 1744

8. Claim 8 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Paisley et al.(US 2,100,610) in view of Labonte (US 5,301,845).

The reference of Paisley et al. has been discussed above.

While the reference of Paisley et al. discloses the use of graduations on the exterior of the bottle (See Figure 1), claim 8 differs by reciting that the snorkel tube includes graduations along the length of the tube.

The reference of Labonte discloses that it is known in the art to provide a tube (13) within a dispensing bottle (13) with graduations (14) (See Figure 1).

In view of this teaching, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide graduations on tube (6) rather than bottle (4) of the primary reference for the known and expected result of providing an alternative means recognized in the art for providing graduations in which the contents of the bottle can be compared with so as to determine volumetric transfer of liquids from the bottle.

9. Claim 9 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Paisley et al.(US 2,100,610) in view of Churchill et al.(US 2,605,021).

The reference of Paisley et al. has been discussed above.

Claim 9 differs by reciting that the snorkel tube includes a fluid trap device.

The reference of Churchill et al. discloses that it is known in the art to provide a vent snorkel (77) within a bottle with a liquid trap device (79) for preventing liquid from entering the vent tube (77) (See column 6, lines 41-72).

Art Unit: 1744

In view of this teaching, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to provide the vent tube (6) of the primary reference with a liquid trap as disclosed by the reference of Churchill et al. for the known and expected result of preventing liquid from entering the vent pipe.

Allowable Subject Matter

10. Claims 1-5 are allowed.

11. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter:

While the prior art of record discloses a culture device that includes a rotor structure for supporting a plurality of culture vessels and the prior art suggest the use of a tilt mechanism to partially tilt the vessels to ensure complete emptying of the vessels in combination with a pressure differential and manifold system, the prior art of record fails to teach or fairly suggest providing the culture device with a mechanism that allows the vessels to be tilted to a substantially vertical position and wherein each vessel includes a cap equipped with a fluid supply/drain connection and snorkel tube arrangement as recited in the claims.
